Attention: Bid Protest Control Unit

Dear Sirs:

We hereby protest a pending procurement by the Central Intelligence Agency, Langley, Virginia, for refuse collection and removal service which we have been informed will be incorporated with janitorial services in a consolidated procurement, and both services removed from the present Small Business Set Aside program. We are the present contractor for refuse collection and disposal at the agency as the result of successful bid under a Small Business Set Aside procurement. Our present contract expires September 30, 1984.

The first notice we recieved of the present pending procurement was on this date when we received an inquiry from a firm advising us that the agency had issued a request for proposal to perform janitorial and refuse collection and disposal service under a single contract. The letter inquired whether we would be willing to submit a bid to the firm for refuse removal and disposal services. We have made inquiry on this date at the agency and we have had difficulty in receiving firm information about the pending procurement. We believe that the procurement number may be RFP-84-(PMS)001.

We hereby protest the form of the procurement, in that the refuse collection and disposal service should be put out as a Small Business Set Aside on formally advertised basis. We received our contract award last year after successfully competing against 2 other small business concerns. We believe that this year the agency will receive at least as many bids and perhaps more from interested small business concerns. We believe that it is unreasonable therefore to remove this procurement from the Set Aside program.

We also protest the joining of the refuse services with the janitorial services. The services are separate and distinct and each can be performed without relation to the other. Government agencies throughout the country have uniformly found it completely satisfactory to procure each service separately and thus to increase the access to the bidding of small business concerns.

We hereby reserve any objections we may have to any provision in the Request For Proposal until we have had an opportunity to receive a copy and to examine it.

We urge your immediate attention to this protest.

We have approximately $400,000.00 of equipment on this job at the agency, and we submit that the present intention of the agency would do us serious harm without a reasonable basis for the action.

Sincerely,

Lewis R. Selis
President
